

Fifty-one school teachers have resigned in Jefferson county and Pine Bluff dispatch quotes County School Supervisor Fred Moore as saying yesterday that it's due to "unsettled financial conditions in the schools."

"Moore said," the dispatch continues, "many of the teachers felt that they would face salary cuts if they remained on the job. And some fear they might be discharged in an economy drive."

There is turmoil in Pine Bluff and its county, but the people are doing something about it. Citizens' groups are developing a tax equalization program, with higher assessments and millage rates indicated.

The same potential threat to public education exists everywhere in Arkansas as we attempt to bridge the critical school year 1951-52. State aid is reduced, and it will be another 12 months before the schools get the benefit of more stringent assessing methods and higher millage rates on local property.

Here in Hope I understand we will be all right after fiscal 1951-52, but this coming school year will call for close management and the co-operation of every property owner.

Property owners should know what the score is, because the teachers have to know. They have to know what the future holds for them—and no institution is going to hold together unless the financial underwriters are prepared to answer that question for the folks working for them.

The Hope district is making a thorough check on all real property this summer, and is meeting with almost uniform co-operation by the taxpayers. For one thing, citizens know that the school bill has to be met—promptly and fully. And for another, folks will shell out tax dollars quicker for the schools than for any other public necessity save only national defense.

There will always be a certain amount of school aid from the state government, but our experience through the years tells us it is positively unsafe to overlook making adequate assessment and collection of school taxes at the local level. Because of too much dependence on the state government we have brought the schools to the brink of such uncertainty that we are in danger of losing much of the teaching staff. That is the one thing that can't be permitted.

Honest taxpayers will recognize that if we run into a financial emergency during the coming school year we have a moral obligation, because of low assessments on which we are paying taxes today, to make a voluntary additional payment on behalf of the schools. If it takes that to put the teachers in the clear during this one critical year I am sure the great majority of taxpayers will respond.

Trumanites Hope for Aid of Public Opinion

Washington, July 15 — (AP) — President Truman's plea for his anti-inflation program has fired administration leaders in congress with hope that a wave of public opinion may help them win more powerful economic controls.

Despite Mr. Truman's public declaration last night that runaway inflation could give Russia global victory "without firing a shot," the controls legislation was still in trouble on both sides of the Capitol.

Congressional sentiment appeared strong for continuance, with some modifications, of the present defense production act instead of a new and tougher law asked by the president.

In carrying his appeal to the people by television and radio, Mr. Truman said:

"This is a fight for everyone to join — a fight for the very life of this nation. x x x We've got to have a good, strong inflation-control law on the books if we are going to get through this emergency successfully."

Although the present law expires June 30, the house banking committee recessed until Monday its closed-door consideration of the President's proposal for a new two year law.

Mr. Truman said in his message to the nation that some congressional leaders told him "they were under a lot of pressure from the special interests to do away with controls, and that the consumers were not making themselves heard."

Administration leaders expressed hope that during the week-end enough consumer-voters will make their views known to turn the tide. The President had virtually invited the voters to let their congressmen know how they felt.

"I am speaking for you and working as hard as I can to convince the members of congress that we must have a strong anti-inflation law," the President said.

"But I can't do the whole job by myself. This is something the whole country must support. It's Mr. Truman cautioned that if inflation runs wild after June 30 because there is no law to curb it, the cost of the defense program will mount, more taxes will be needed and the consuming public will suffer."

U. S. Reported Not Interested in 'Cease Fire'

Washington, June 15 — (AP) — The United States is reported opposed to any action aimed at seeking a cease-fire agreement with the Chinese Communists now.

Its attitude, however, would not preclude talks if the Reds made the first overtures. Officials here say they have no knowledge of any truce feelers.

The state department, it was learned today, has informed the diplomats of the 11 countries with troops in Korea that it believes Red China's fighting power must be further reduced on the battlefield before any new cease-fire proposal can hope to evoke a favorable response from Peking.

Informed officials told a reporter that assistant Secretary Dean Rusk had said down the American position in a series of meetings with the foreign diplomats. These officials asked not to be quoted by name.

Another of the twice-weekly sessions is scheduled to be held at the state department today. Prospects were the cease-fire problem will be discussed.

Britain is reported to have suggested the possibility of reviving a 1949 proposal for a cease-fire. This would be similar to one drafted for President Truman last March but which was shelved when Gen. Douglas MacArthur issued his own truce bid first.

The state department reportedly has resisted this British suggestion thus far on the grounds that it would do no good.

As an alternative, it has suggested that Mr. Truman might make a report on the Korean fighting to United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie. Such a report, however, would stick to detailed terms and conditions for a settlement without lifting any detailed terms and conditions for a settlement. It was said.

A more precise spelling out of these conditions, it is said, could come later on behalf of all 11 nations after Communism China has had more time to realize its objectives and to make a decision as to whether it cannot

Reds Reported Digging in on Korean Ridges

Tokyo, June 15 — (AP) — Large numbers of fresh Red troops were reported digging in today on the rain-swept ridges of eastern Korea.

Reds battled United Nations tank columns in the central front, but vanished completely in the west. Allied tank columns rumbled on two roads toward Kumsong, now Chinese base in the center. One patrol moved through a mountain pass to the Chupa area, nine miles south of Kumsong. It met only sporadic fire. Another tank patrol clanked out of Kumsong, 11 miles west of Chupa, blasting at determined Chinese along a ridge route.

U. N. fighter-bombers slipped through rain clouds to aid the drive toward Kumsong. Pilots reported they caught a large group of Reds on the open banks of the Kumsong river just before dusk. They said they had excellent coverage with their bombsticks.

To the southeast, North Koreans showed the Allied line with mortar fire. AP Correspondent George A. McArthur reported.

"The Reds are digging in," a U. N. officer said, "trying to establish a defense line."

In the Yanggu-Jike area Red artillery somersaulted on the hills ringing with continuous explosions, McArthur reported.

U. N. artillery replied by pounding the new defense line the Reds were apparently constructing north of Allied positions.

Three battalions digging in on a single hill north of Yanggu were blasted by Allied guns.

U. N. foot troops straightened their lines and probed Red positions all along the East. North of Jike the Allies pushed about a mile through intense fire. Officers said the fire appeared to be a delaying action to give other Reds time to dig in.

Along the western front Allied patrols pushed four miles out in front of U. N. lines without running into sizable Communist forces. AP Correspondent Stan C. A. F. I. said. "All indications were that the main body of Reds had withdrawn many miles to the north of U. N. lines."

The U. S. Eighth Army said patrols operating through the fallen Kumsong — Chupwon — Pyongsang "iron triangle" made only light enemy contact.

Communist Party Not to Disband

New York, June 15 — (AP) — The top leadership must go to prison said yesterday will not disband.

Speaking for the party was Eugene Dennis, its general secretary. He called a general conference to say the organization is in this country "to stay."

"We are going to stay," he said. "We are going to fight for our own rights and for the rights of all the people — Negro and white."

"We are going to resist, we are going to drive the Communists out of our country and we are going to organize our people and our organization."

Dennis is one of the Communist leaders convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Their convictions were handed last week by the U. S. Supreme court and they now must go to prison to serve terms ranging from three to five years.

Dennis said the general conference will be held in the Communist Party's version of the meaning of the supreme court decision as it affects our party and the American people.

Five million copies of a statement on the case now are being printed for distribution throughout the country.

The statement is one of the anti-Communists of America. "We are going to resist, we are going to drive the Communists out of our country and we are going to organize our people and our organization."

It is a statement of the Communist Party's version of the meaning of the supreme court decision as it affects our party and the American people.

DOROTHY DIX
Narrow-Minded Husband

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have chosen you to settle this argument for us: I do all my housework, cooking, washing, cleaning, sewing and baby-tending, but because I don't bring in a weekly pay envelope my husband does not think that I am contributing anything to our support. Hence that the bank account should be in his name alone, whereas I think that it should be in both of our names. He is unfair about it. I am saving and economical and anxious to help us get a start in the world. Can it be that he does not love me or trust me?

MRS. L. C. M.

Answer: The fact that your husband wants to keep all the money in his own name is an indication that he does not love you in his way. The affection of lots of men doesn't reach as far as their pockets and any way, men just naturally like to be the purse-bearers because it definitely settles their status as the head of the house.

His Theory Absurd

I fully agree with you that the family bank account should be in the name of both the husband and wife, unless the wife has shown that she is extravagant and wasteful and unfit to handle money. Nothing is more absurd than the theory that the domestic woman does not contribute to the family support. She gives her labor and performs services so vast and so different that it would bankrupt her husband to pay for them if he had to hire them done.

Ask your husband to sit down and figure out what it would cost to employ a cook and scrubwoman and a laundress and a nurse and a house maid and a social secretary and a purchasing agent, and see how much it comes to in real money. That should surely convince him that the laborer is worthy of her hire even if she does work inside of

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am confronted with the possibility of an unwanted and unwelcome guest. I knew this girl four years ago and even then didn't care much for her. She has two ill-behaved children, doesn't keep them or herself clean and has no respect for other people's property. How can I keep her from coming to my home?

Answer: Measures of the most drastic type are indicated here. Tell her there's no room for her or that you're too busy to have guests. If these reasons don't work, simply put your foot down hard on the unwelcome mat and say "Not!" Once you let this little girl in the house I'm afraid you'll have a hard time getting rid of her.

Atlanta City, N. J., June 15 — (AP)—A small segment of American surgeons' was accused yesterday by one of their colleagues of performing needless operations the home instead of outside of it. And this does not take into consideration the fact that the wife is the watchdog of the treasury, and that she practices a thousand economies and pinches every penny in a way that no servant would do, but that makes it possible to pile up the bank account balance to which her husband is unwilling to give her access.

Dear Miss Dix: My boy friend, who is overseas, tells me he loves me and wants to marry me when he comes home. I love him very much, too, but here is the problem. He promised to send me money to send me money to keep for our wedding and to send me gifts for holidays. He has never fulfilled his promise. He says he will make up for it when he returns. Do you think he will be a truthful husband if we should get married?

Answer: Don't you read the papers, Kathryn? Don't you realize that our boys overseas have something else on their minds besides picking out presents for the girls at home? And just how much money do you think is left from a soldier's pay after he buys the things he needs? These boys aren't exactly out on a spree, you know.

Don't be so self-centered. You should be the one to do the sending. A box of cookies from home means a great deal more to him than some foreign gimcrack would to you, so get busy in the kitchen. Kaut and mix him up a batch of his favorite goodies and get 'em off pronto!

I don't think you mean to be as selfish as you sound, so I hope this little reminder will make you look at your boy friend's side of the story. I hope you haven't been nagging him about his apparent forgetfulness. Remember, cheerful letters from home and an occasional gift of homey things and useful articles, even those as prosaic as toothpaste and soap, are what our boys deserve.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am confronted with the possibility of an unwanted and unwelcome guest. I knew this girl four years ago and even then didn't care much for her. She has two ill-behaved children, doesn't keep them or herself clean and has no respect for other people's property. How can I keep her from coming to my home?

Answer: Measures of the most drastic type are indicated here. Tell her there's no room for her or that you're too busy to have guests. If these reasons don't work, simply put your foot down hard on the unwelcome mat and say "Not!" Once you let this little girl in the house I'm afraid you'll have a hard time getting rid of her.

20,000 Hear MacArthur in Houston

Houston, Tex., June 15 — (AP)—A crowd of 20,000, which filled only about one-third of the seats in the huge Rice stadium, last night heard General Douglas MacArthur decry the feeling of fear in this land.

The five-star general stared at vast expanses of empty space as he carried his anti-administration stand to this city of more than half-a-million population.

"I find prevalent throughout the land the feeling of fear generated by false propaganda that we are weak, that we must appease and compromise to encourage others to desert from attacking."

This was the core of his second major speech in Texas. He delivered it from a flag draped platform on the field of rice institute's football stadium.

The 71-year-old general, continues his whirlwind tour of Texas at San Antonio and Dallas today and winds it up with a speech at Fort Worth tomorrow and flies back to New York city in the plane Texans chartered for his trip.

Carroll Martin, who helps count the football gates in the stadium, first told newsmen there were about 20,000 in the stadium. After the speech he called and "asked that this be changed to 25,000."

The Houston Post put it at 30,000 and added: "Many Houstonians were surprised, if not embarrassed, that the 70,000-seat stadium, charging too much, and spilling fees.

The charges were made before the American Medical association in a speech by Dr. J. S. Ravdin, chief surgeon at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and Hospital, Philadelphia.

The "small segment" also was accused of "ghost surgery" and of calling incompetent surgeons. Dr. Ravdin, saying these practices threaten "our great heritage," called for a "housecleaning." The doctor, an army brigadier general now doing government work, declared:

"In the attack now being made on American medicine, surgeons unfortunately have provided a considerable amount of ammunition which is being used by those who would destroy medicine as it is and should be practiced."

Many Believe 'Mac' May Run for Office

Washington, June 14 — (AP) — Politicians wondered today whether Gen. Douglas MacArthur is embarking on a political — as well as a foreign policy — crusade in a series of Texas speeches.

The five star general of the army, in an Austin, Tex., address last night, was critical of both the international and domestic policies of the Truman administration.

It was just the sort of speech that Senator Taft of Ohio — all but an avowed candidate for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination — might have made in bidding for conventional delegates.

However, Democrats and Republicans were cautious here in predicting that MacArthur is seeking a presidential nomination. He says he doesn't intend to seek any political office.

Senator Brewster (R-Mo.) told a reporter he thinks MacArthur may be testing at first hand the reaction to his proposals for accelerating the Korean war.

Brewster and some other Republicans apparently don't want their party to nominate a military man — either MacArthur or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the North Atlantic defense commander.

Senator Bridges (R-NH) said last night he does not think MacArthur would accept the GOP nomination for president. Bridges, interviewed on a radio program (CBS), said he thinks MacArthur was sincere in disclaiming political ambitions.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), a staunch supporter of MacArthur's Far Eastern policies, said he doesn't think the general is running for anything.

Democrats generally declined to comment on possible political aspirations of MacArthur's Austin talk. Even Senator Kerr (D-Okla.), who made a ringing denunciation of the MacArthur policies at a recent Democratic party rally in Denver, had no comment.

Without naming them, MacArthur attacked President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson. He said, by implication, that they "are not willing to compromise moral principles and have lost the traditional American patriotic touch."

On domestic matters, MacArthur said "corruption and rumors of corruption have shaken the people's trust in the integrity of those administering the civil service."

The deposed Pacific commander said "the cost of government has become a burden of taxation so heavy that the system of free enterprise which built our great material strength has become imperiled."

This had the ring of Republican campaign oratory, and some politicians said it might reflect frequent conferences with former President Herbert Hoover, who lives in the same New York City hotel as the general.

The U. S. Army has its own pilots, trained in U. S. Air Force schools.

Football Keeps Cropping Up in the News

By CARL BELL

Little Rock, June 15 — (AP) — Don't know why, but football news keeps popping up in these days of baseball.

Maybe football is entitled to a league conference to rival baseball's hot stove league — that's what they call the winter diamond gossip that crowds some grid news off the sports pages.

Anyway, the southwest conference office has come up with some football facts and figures that are too interesting to pass up or sit on until fall. It's a list of the outstanding plays and performances of all-time in the league.

Arkansas athletes are high on the list in each phase. For instance:

Jim Benton ranks as the top pass receiver. The Razorback caught 44 aerials for 814 yards in 1927.

Aubrey Fowler, the slightly built speed merchant, turned in the third longest touch down run from scrimmage when he dashed 85 yards in the little-clinching victory over Southern Methodist at Fayetteville in 1934.

Johnny Cole's 75-yard hipper-dipper job against Texas last season was the seventh longest scoring punt return in history.

Only four touchdown kickoff returns have been longer than Ralph La Forge's 58-yarder against Texas Christian in 1933.

Louie Schaeffle's 78-yard punt against William and Mary in 1919 ranks as the third best recorded by the Southwest. Fifth best ever was 74 yards in the all-around Porker killed while over Burma to become the first American to fall in World War Two. He took the ball that far against Baylor in 1933.

Elvin Gelsner, now grid coach at Little Rock high school, kicked the fourth longest field goal in the records — 44 yards against TCU in 1934.

Kay Eakin completed 78 passes for 92 yards in 1934 for the sixth best tossing record.

Garland Beavers, the Razorback terror of the late twenties, is the league's third highest scorer ever with 84 points in 1928.

The best — aside from Benton's pass snagging —

Bohn (CQ) Hilliard (Texas), 64-yard run from scrimmage against Texas Tech in 1934; C. Leland (TCU), 3-yard punt return for touchdown against Baylor in 1929;ullen Rogers (Texas) A. M., 99-yard runback of intercepted pass for a touch down against Arkansas in 1942; Charles Cooper (TCU), 103-yard scoring kickoff return against Texas in 1933; Huey Keeney (Rice), 83-yard punt against Texas A. M. in 1933; most extra points in one year, 29, by Jake Webster of A. M. in 1911; David O'Brien (TCU) completed 110 passes for 1,733 yards in 1933; Redman Hume (SMU) 102 points scored in 1927.
